A Note from the Executive Director

With much information available these days both digitally and in print, it helps to know when you contact the NBEF that you are getting the correct info you need to harvest that animal or the correct info someone needs to get started such as when to shoot, where to shoot, and how to be a safe, ethical hunter. Our basic course is available via in-person classroom or digitally via the Internet. Many times a course will be available using both the digital format followed by an in-person field day. Which ever method you choose, the material and information presented will be a standardized content used around the world for generations. Today's student will have options of current videos, animations, and content that is mobile device friendly wherever they are.

So take a class today and see how we can make your next hunt more successful!
